Turks cease fire

By The Associated Press

Turkish forces took the key western town of Lefka today, completing their drive to slice off the northern third of Cyprus for a proposed autonomous Turkish state, the Turkish Cypriot radio reported.

The announcement came as a 6 p.m. noon EDT cease-fire ordered by Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit was to go into effect. But there was no immediate word the truce was being observed.

Turkish forces had already captured Famagusta, 35 miles east of the capital of Nicosia, and had been driving on Lefka, 30 miles west of the capital.

At the same time, Turkish air and artillery attacks forced the Cyprus government to abandon the capital and flee to the south coast port of Limassol. Cyprus President Glafcos Clerides and his ministers fled so hurriedly that the doors of the deserted presidential offices were left banging in the wind. There was no evidence that any attempt had been made to remove files or other papers. The building was completely deserted.

He said the military objectives did not exceed the political ones Turkey asked for at the Geneva conference table.

The objectives apparently involve carving out a Turkish sector in the northern third of the island which would be cut off from the south by a line bisecting Cyprus from Lefka in the west to Famagusta in the east.

The Turkish troops already have taken Famagusta, and Ecevit's statement indicated that they expected to take Lefka too by the cease-fire deadline.

Meanwhile, the danger of war between Greece and Turkey lessened as Greek Premier Constantine Caramanlis said in a broadcast that the Greek army would not reinforce the Greek Cypriot troops because this would leave Greece defenseless.

Turkish tanks late Thursday afternoon rolled into Famagusta, the Mediterranean island's chief port. The action established a 35-mile line from the capital, Nicosia, to the east coast.

Associated Press Correspondent Peter Arnett reported that the Greek Cypriot national guard and police fled from the city, and the Greek Cypriot quarter was deserted. There was no opposition as Turkish troops moved from the Turkish Cypriot sector into the Greek quarter today.

The Turkish radio said the Turks also captured the naval base at Boghaz, 10 miles north of Famagusta.

Another Turkish column was pushing westward to extend the line from Nicosia to Lefka, on the northwest coast. It was reported six miles from Morphou, a major town 21 miles west of Nicosia and 10 miles from Lefka. The Turkish Cypriot radio reported Greek and Greek Cypriot troops were "retreating in panic" from Lefka.

The Greek Cypriots were believed to have abandoned Morphou also.

Another Turkish Cypriot broadcast said Turkish jets were heavily bombing the highway from Paphos, in southwest Cyprus, to Lefka to prevent Greek Cypriot reinforcements from reaching Lefka.

Turkish jets resumed bombing and strafing attacks around Nicosia at dawn for the third day, and there was little anti-aircraft fire. The chief targets were the camp two miles west of the city of the 950-man Greek army contingent assigned to Cyprus, and a five-mile strip of factories on the eastern outskirts. However, the Turks made no attempt to advance into the Greek Cypriot sector.

Greece attempted to pressure U.S.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Greece's withdrawal from the North Atlantic military command probably was an attempt to pressure the United States and its allies to tilt against the Turks on Cyprus, some officials at the headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization say.

No NATO spokesman will play down the importance of the Greek action publicly. But privately some officials see it as a diplomatic maneuver with few practical consequences.

"Withdrawal from NATO" has a ringing sound and helps satisfy anti-American sentiment in Greece. But the Greeks are remaining in the North Atlantic Council, the political part of the alliance, and keeping their ambassador and his staff at the Brussels headquarters. There was no move to remove Greek employees from the international civilian staff.

On Wednesday, the Greek government said it had told its military representatives with the various NATO commands to leave their posts within 24 hours. But on Thursday they showed no sign of going, and it was reported that no firm order had arrived.

Some officers thought they might not go for some time. Or they might just change their title from "military representatives" to "liaison officers." That is what the French officers at allied headquarters did after the late President Charles de Gaulle withdrew France from NATO's joint command in 1966.

The Greek flag still flew on Thursday at NATO's European military headquarters near Mons as well as at the Brussels home of the North Atlantic Council.

Although De Gaulle threw U.S. and other allied troops out of France, Greek Foreign Minister George Mavros said Thursday that American forces are in Greece under special agreements between the two countries and he doubted if these could be broken.

The Greek action involves no major troop movements. Greece's NATO assignment was to protect itself from attack by the Soviet Bloc, and the Greek army is still protecting Greece even though the shield is up against attack from Turkey rather than from the Communists.

The Turkish military action has upset allied planning more than Greece's action. The Turks sent a sizable part of their combat strength to Cyprus, in the opposite direction from their border with the Soviet Union. But Greece's borders with Turkey are in the same general area as its frontier with Bulgaria, its only close neighbor in the Warsaw Pact, and not much movement would be required to shift the troops from the Turkish border to the Bulgarian.

Bicycle safety here stressed

"There will be more bicyclists driving to school this year than ever before," Washington C. H. Police Chief Rodman Scott stated and continued, "it is the responsibility of both the cyclist and the motorist to observe the rules of the road."

Chief Scott said the Bicycle Institute of America estimates more than 100 million Americans driving bicycles and so, more than ever before the responsibilities of the motorist and the cyclist to each other in sharing the roadway must be realized and respected.

"Accident statistics clearly demonstrate it is not the failure of the bicycle or the automobile which causes serious accidents, it is the cyclist and the motorist. I wholeheartedly recommend serious improvements in our safety education programs in this area; not just for the school children, but for the adults also," Chief Scott commented.

Cyclists are urged to inspect their bikes on a regular basis to make sure they are in good working order.

CHIEF SCOTT outlined the following list of bicycle rules and regulations:

Bicycles should be driven as safely as any road vehicle and they are subject to the same rules of vehicular traffic, wherever they apply. A good "rule of (Please turn to page 2)

Congress rushes anti-inflation measures

WASHINGTON (AP) Congress is rushing to grant President Ford's request for weapons to use in the battle against galloping inflation

Acting three years to the day after the Nixon administration first froze wages and prices, banking committees in both houses approved a bill creating a White House agency to monitor the economy.

But members of the House and Senate emphasized they neither expect nor desire the new agency to lead to a new round of wage-price controls.

And there was a widespread feeling that the new agency really won't be able to do much to halt inflation.

But, as Chairman John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., of the Senate panel explained, "This is his (Ford's) first effort to do something and I think we ought to give him the modest power he asks for."

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House committee, said, "Many of us have doubts about the effectiveness of this task force approach but let's give the President's suggestion a try."

Both houses are expected to approve the bill Monday, meaning the measure could go to Ford for his signature by midweek.

The bill would create a White House agency with no enforcement power, but with authority to constantly monitor wage and price increases, productivity, shortages and other economic factors with the aim of giving the government the information it needs to move against inflation.

The House committee approved the measure 27-7. The Senate panel accepted it on a voice vote without dissent.

The new agency won the endorsement earlier on Thursday of representatives of business and labor.

Andrew J. Biemiller, chief lobbyist for the AFL-CIO, repeated the federation's opposition to wage-price controls, contending that nothing was controlled under the Nixon administration's program except wages.

Biemiller added that labor will go along with the agency, even though describing it as "a public relations gimmick."

E. Douglas Kenna, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said business can accept the monitoring agency so long as it is clear there is no authority to control wages and prices.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Having shed the legal armor that protected him in the White House, Richard M. Nixon is about to receive a subpoena that could be the harbinger of further legal entanglements.

The subpoena was filed here on Thursday by lawyers for John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's former domestic adviser. It seeks Nixon's testimony as a defense witness in Ehrlichman's upcoming conspiracy trial arising from the Watergate cover-up.

Addressed to "Richard M. Nixon, Presidential Compound, San Clemente, Calif.," the subpoena was mailed to the U.S. marshal's office in Los Angeles for delivery to Nixon, probably in the next couple of days.

The subpoena was accompanied by check for $302 to cover Nixon's travel expenses and daily witness fees.

While president, Nixon received court protection from subpoenas requiring his testimony, though he was compelled by the Supreme Court to honor subpoenas for tapes and documents in the Watergate investigation.

It's unclear what sort of testimony Nixon would be expected to give on Ehrlichman's behalf. One Ehrlichman lawyer cited a gag rule laid down by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica as the reason why he couldn't spell out the purpose of the subpoena.

Ehrlichman and five other defendants are scheduled to stand trial Sept. 9. However, three—Ehrlichman, H.R. Haldeman and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell—were joined-Thursday in their pleas for delay by special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, who said he needs more time to study new presidential tapes. Sirica set a hearing Monday to deal with those requests.

Nixon's presidential immunity apparently thwarted the Watergate grand jury's original resolve to indict him as another member of the alleged conspiracy. Instead, the indictment handed down March 1 listed Nixon as an unindicted co-conspirator.

Jaworski and his staff now are studying whether Nixon should be indicted as a full-fledged conspirator. That possibility has stirred debate around the country, and the American Bar Association's legislative body went on record on Thursday in favor of the proposition that no one should get special treatment in facing prosecution for alleged crimes.

The ABA's 340-member House of Delegates, meeting in Honolulu at the annual bar convention, approved the principle after discussing Nixon's status. However, the resolution didn't mention Nixon or Watergate specifically.

Jaworski's decision is not expected immediately.

Ehrlichman appeared in a state court in Los Angeles on Thursday with another defense attorney and entered a new plea of innocent to perjury charges stemming from the break-in at the Beverly Hills office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Ehrlichman's new plea was based on the argument that he already had stood trial for perjury and that another trial would be double jeopardy and, thus, unconstitutional. Ehrlichman was convicted here last month on federal charges of perjury and conspiracy in the case.

Panel members say Nixon wasn't forced to resign

WASHINGTON (AP) — While asserting that former President Richard M. Nixon was not hounded out of office, a draft report by 10 House Judiciary Republicans says he wasn't impeachable on most charges either. The draft report contends the only "direct and persuasive" impeachment evidence the committee ever received was Nixon's own statement last week that he approved an initial Watergate cover-up effort and then concealed that fact.

"We hope that it will not hereafter be said by many that Richard Nixon was 'hounded out of office,' for that is not true," the draft says.

It says that until Nixon's own statement, the only Watergate cover-up impeachment evidence the House committee had was "layer upon layer of hearsay."

The 10 Republicans voted against all three impeachment articles approved by the committee, but all 10 announced after his Aug. 5 disclosure that they would vote for the Watergate cover-up article on the House floor. Seven committee Republicans voted for at least one impeachment article.

Nixon resigned before the end of the week, saying his loss of support in Congress left him no other choice.

The minority report of around 100 pages is to be published with the 175-page majority report and individual views next week as the Judiciary Committee's official report on the three impeachment articles.

The majority report concludes that

"from the beginning the President knowingly directed the cover-up of the Watergate burglary."

It also concludes that Nixon "repeatedly and willfully" abused his power by misusing federal agencies such as the Internal Revenue Service and by violating rights of citizens, par-

Ohio lottery officials eye state fair

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Ohio Lottery Commissioners were to meet the media today to discuss a dispute about whether lottery tickets would be sold at the state fair.

Ohio Agriculture Director Gene Abercrombie has said he would block ticket sales until a ruling by the state attorney general was cleared up.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown ruled that the amendment approved by Ohio voters creating the lottery superseded state laws prohibiting gambling at the fairgrounds.

Abercrombie has maintained that the gambling prohibition is in effect until specifically overridden.

Up to today, the lottery commission had adopted a wait-and-see attitude. Abercrombie also had framed the issue in moral terms.

He said lottery statutes prohibit sale of tickets to anyone under age 18 and said he didn't have the manpower to enforce the law. He said he would not oppose a lottery drawing at the fair but that ticket sales were another matter.

The lottery has sold an estimated 4.25 million tickets, lottery spokesmen said, and agents keep coming back for more.

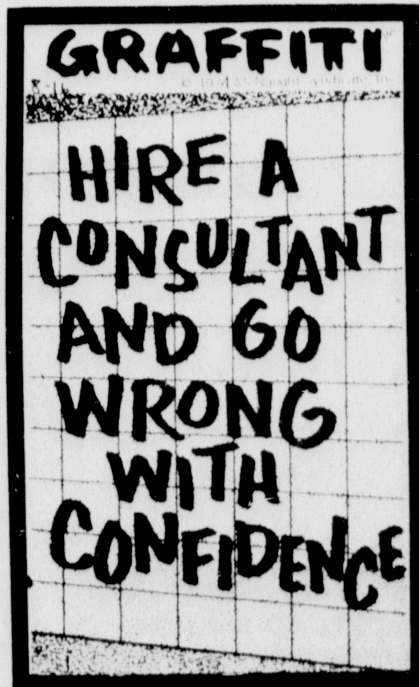

"We ought to sell in excess of 10 million, I hope," a spokesman said.

In Toledo, district director Jerry Fadell said tickets were evaporating "like water."

Around Marietta, director Walter "Snuffy" Smith said a "little bookstore" sold a thousand tickets Saturday and Sunday.

The spokesman said 600 tickets were stolen in Lima and Cleveland and have been voided by the computer. He recommended signing the tickets, saying they cannot be altered successfully by erasing.

He added that it would be smart to write down the numbers, too.

ticularly Pentagon Papers figure Daniel Ellsberg.

Sharply disagreeing with both those conclusions, the Republicans' draft report says Nixon did not direct the Watergate cover-up but rather joined "an ongoing conspiracy" to obstruct justice in 1972.

It says the only hard evidence is his own statement that six days after the Watergate break-in he approved an effort to steer the FBI away from investigating the first leads that it was his re-election committee's operation.

The Republicans' report says the committee's evidence disproved an allegation that Nixon ordered a $75,000 hush-money payment to Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr.

It says witnesses established that arrangements for paying the money already were being made by the time Nixon made comments at a March 21, 1973, meeting that could be interpreted as meaning that he might approve of it to buy time.

Cyprus' main port now a ghost town

By PETER ARNETT

AP Special Correspondent

FAMAGUSTA, Cyprus (AP) — The Greek half of Famagusta is a ghost town.

We had the choice Thursday night of sleeping in any of 40 empty luxury hotels along the beach.

Two British correspondents— Will Jones of the Sunday Times and Colin Smith of the Observer—and I checked ourselves into the Markos, a multistory hotel with a well-stocked bar and a clear view of the city.

The beds were neatly made. Towels and soap were in the bathroom. But there wasn't another soul in the hotel. The staff had fled, leaving the front door open.

The Greek police also had fled this most important port in Cyprus, and Greek Cypriot soldiers seemed to have disappeared completely.

Twenty truckloads passed me at dusk, heading out of town.

The reason for their departure was clear. A Turkish tank armada rolled across the wide Masaoria Plain on Thursday and at dusk pushed through the north gate of Famagusta's old walled city, where 11,000 Turkish Cypriots had been holed up for nearly a month.

At dusk, even the oldest Greeks were heading south toward the sanctuary of the British base at Dhekelia. I picked up two elderly people and a blind woman who begged to be taken to the edge of town.

The coolest heads in the Greek part of Famagusta were the United Nations soldiers and policemen who counted the Turkish tanks as they moved into the city just before nightfall.

Swedish U.N. police manning a post in the southern part of Famagusta decided to stay overnight. They provided the three of us with bread, cheese and a handful of grapes.

A few Greek Cypriots still wandering the streets said they did not want to abandon their houses. But they said they feared that the local Turkish Cypriots, with their new freedom, might embark on an orgy of looting through the Greek sector.

Famagusta on Thursday night was silent and dark. The only glow of light came from a smoldering fire left over from the day's fighting.

Telephones, however, were still working perfectly, maintaining a convenient link with the outside world.

This account was dictated from a high school opposite the Markos Hotel, in the dark. We had the entire hotel switchboard at our disposal, but it was too intricate for us to operate.

Turkish Cypriot soldiers walked jauntily out of the sandbagged main gate of the walled city this morning and began occupying the abandoned Greek part of Famagusta. They carried their rifles at ease over their shoulders.

I watched from the hotel overlooking the walls. Through the night and until 6:30 a.m., when the Turkish Cypriots began taking stations in the main shopping areas, there was no shooting anywhere in Famagusta.

There was no sign of the tanks that raised the Greek Cypriot siege of the Turkish enclave. There seemed no likelihood that they would be needed. The Greek positions around the walls were abandoned.

Justice Department eyes Congressional record hoax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, chairman of the House Administration Committee, Thursday asked the Justice Department to investigate the entering of false, satirical statements into the Congressional Record under the names of several House members.

Reps. Earl Landgrebe, R-Ind., and John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, were the chief targets of statements which Landgrebe said "read like Mad Magazine."

Landgrebe labeled as a hoax a statement in Thursday's Record attributed to him saying President Ford should appoint Richard Nixon vice president and then resign.

The statement concluded: "To restore to a nation cheated of its rightful, rightthinking, and right-leaning leadership, an act of great statesmanship, compassion, and wisdom by Mr. Ford would be the appointment of Richard Nixon as his vice president, and his own subsequent resignation of the Presidency."

Landgrebe said anyone who knows him knows he wouldn't say anything like that.

He was perhaps Nixon's premier defender in Congress, telling newsmen he didn't care if Nixon did commit impeachable offenses, and that he would stand by Nixon even if they were to be dragged into the street and shot.

The Indiana congressman was granted House permission to expunge the statement from the permanent copy of the Record.

Statements attributed to Ashbrook dealt with Chile and said, among other things, that the junta should return Chilean workers to "their rightful American owners."

Ford gains on Kennedy

NEW YORK (AP) — In the last weeks of the Nixon presidency, then-Vice President Ford was a narrow 46 to 47 per cent behind Sen. Edward Kennedy D-Mass., as the favorite of Americans who plan to vote for President in 1976, a Harris poll indicates.

But the pollster added in a report issued Thursday that if Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace were Kennedy's running mate Ford would jump ahead as the 48-44 per cent preference.

A GOP slate in which Ford and Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., would be pitted against Kennedy and Wallace would give Ford a 48-43 per cent lead, the survey reported.

Ford vetoes research bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's second veto has killed a bid to beef up the research battle against diseases and pests which annually destroy $4 billion worth of meat and poultry.

"Because this bill would add further to the federal taxpayers' burdens without significantly meeting national needs and would only add to inflationary pressures within the economy, I feel that I must withhold my approval," Ford told the House in his veto message on Thursday.

Democrats eye charter for party

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last preliminary bout to the Democratic party's mini-convention begins Saturday in Kansas City with the drafting of a proposed party charter.

Old party antagonisms could produce the first volley in another intra-party battle, depending on how well the charter commission does in compromising the remaining sore issues.

The Saturday and Sunday sessions wind up the work of the commission, which was created by the reform wing during the 1972 presidential campaign and directed to draw up the first formal charter for a modern political party.

The final version will be voted on in December by the party's first midterm convention, also in Kansas City.

A tentative charter has been circulating since March to allow support or opposition to specific planks to develop.

Fights are expected to come in three major areas: The manner of electing national party chairmen, whether to continue the midterm convention idea and creation of a judicial council to referee party disputes.

For the most part, the charter formalizes long-standing structures and procedures.

But there are some important innovations, including something of a Democratic bill of rights which guarantees open access to the party for "all who desire to support the party and who wish to be known as Democrats."

Two competing formulas would change the system for electing national party chairmen, both aimed at avoiding past conflicts but taking different approaches.

The leading plan would provide for election of the national chairman just before and just after each presidential campaign. This would allow the party's presidential nominee to pick a chairman of his choice to head the party during his campaign.

But it also would avoid the embarrassment the party went through after the last presidential election when the chairman, Jean Westwood, was ousted after Sen. George McGovern's landslide defeat.

An automatic post-campaign election would allow the choice of a new chairman with better party support without the necessity of first throwing the old one out.

However, an alternative supported by the staunchest reformers would remove the whole thing from the influence of presidential politics by having the chairman elected after each campaign.

This would mean a chairman picked without the influence of the euphoria following a nomination and untied to any particular candidate. But it also would mean a presidential nominee picked four years later might have to campaign with a chairman not of his choosing, possibly even a political opponent, at the party helm.

Some compromise is expected on the question of whether to continue the midterm conventions mandated by the reform wing at the 1972 national convention.

Stock prices dip lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed lower today in dull trading, exhausted from six days of sharp losses, brokers said.

The Dow Jones industrial average was down 2.66 at 735.22 at noon after having been up about 3 points in early trading.

Advances continued to lead declines, but the margin narrowed to a slight difference.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was down .07 at 76.01 at noon.

Brokers said bargain buying and an expected end to the fighting on Cyprus at noon encouraged investors to some early buying. But inflation problems continued to cloud the market's outlook, they said.

On the Big Board, Fleming Co. was the most-active stock, unchanged at 9 1/2.

The NYS broad-based composite index was down .06 at 40.00 at noon.

Two county residents get auction diplomas

Six men, including two Fayette County residents, graduated from the Knotts Auction School during ceremonies held Thursday night in the Washington Inn.

Kenneth Clouser, Fishback Rd., and Gordon West, South Court Dr., were among the six graduates of Ohio's only privately-owned, state approved school of auctioneering.

A banquet at the inn preceded the graduation ceremonies.

The course in auctioneering prepares the students for the state examination which must be passed before an individual may become an apprentice auctioneer. After the apprenticeship, another examination must be passed to obtain a state license.

Included in the studies are discussions of the auction chant, law concerning auctions and auctioneers, information on livestock, real estate, general merchandise and food auctioneering.

The champion "auctioneer" of the class was Keith Sheridan, of Cedarville. The distinction resulted from a vote of the class members.

Col. R.E. Knotts, director of the school, conducted the course and graduation exercises which were attended by some local auctioneers.

Others receiving diplomas were Gary Martin and Joe Lewis, of Chillicothe, and Gailard L. Tigner, Grove City.

Episcopal bishops void ordinations

CHICAGO (AP) — A ruling body of the Episcopal Church says 11 women ordained in a controversial ceremony about two weeks ago are not priests and may not perform priestly duties.

The interpretation of church doctrine came in the form of a resolution approved overwhelmingly Thursday by the House of Bishops at a two-day special session to consider the women's ordinations.

Charles V. Willie, vice president of the House of Deputies, the other branch of the church's legislative General Convention, called approval of the resolution "an exercise of male arrogance of the most blatant kind I have ever seen."

Willie also deplored the bishops' voice vote rejection of an amendment to the resolution which would have urged approval of women priests by the General Convention at its next meeting in two years.

dropped a separate action which could have led to the stripping of priestly orders of three of those who officiated. The fourth attended the ceremony but did not participate.

The Rt. Rev. John M. Allin, presiding bishop of the church, said the question was an internal matter and should not be interpreted by the secular world as one which restricts the freedom of women.

However, he said that any of the women who attempt to practice priestly duties, or any bishop who allows them to do so, is subject to discipline, including expulsion from the 3.2 million-member church, the American branch of the Anglican Church in England.

Tire boycott won't affect production

"We are shocked and saddened," one of the women, Carter Heyward of New York City, said in a statement on behalf of her 10 colleagues.

"The fact that men could sit there and presume to make a decision affecting the vocations of women and not think it is prejudicial amazes me," she said. "I'm still a priest. There's no question about it in my mind."

She added: "Each of us will make her own decision as to how and when to affirm the priesthood she knows to be hers."

She declined to elaborate. Nine of the ordained women were present at various times during the meeting.

The resolution also decried the actions of four bishops involved in the ordination ceremonies in Philadelphia on July 29. However, the delegates AKRON, Ohio (AP)—U.S. tire production probably would not be greatly affected by a proposed national Canadian boycott of products of the Firestone and Goodyear Tire & Rubber companies, a Firestone spokesman said here Thursday.

He said production for Canadian markets was the responsibility of Canadian subsidiaries.

"The situation concerns us, but everything up there is handled by the Canadian people," the spokesman said of Firestone operations. "That's really an independent operation out of Hamilton, Ont. They run their own shop."

Mine to reopen

HARLAN, Ky. (AP) — Eastover Mining Co. was expected to try to reopen its Highsplit mine today, following a mass demonstration that closed the mine and resulted in charges against 13 persons Thursday.

State Police obtained warrants for the arrest of 13 pickets after a crowd of 200 demonstrators prevented Eastover from operating the facility for the second day this week.

Eastover President Norman Yarborough said he would try to send his men to work again today.

Ford plans OSU speech

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—President Ford has confirmed his appearance as keynote speaker at Ohio State University's summer quarter commencement, Robert G. Smith, vice president for university development said today.

Smith said University President Harold L. Enarson received the confirmation Thursday night through U.S. Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio.

Earlier, university officials were uncertain whether President Ford would honor the commitment he made as vice president.

Smith said a decision would be made soon whether to switch the Aug. 30 commencement to Ohio Stadium.

Tickets will be required for the 20,000 graduates and their guests Smith said.

Ecology research to continue

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indiana Natural Resources Commission has allowed Earlham College and Miami University of Ohio to continue for another year an ecological research center at the new Brookville Reservoir in eastern Indiana.

The vote to continue the five-year-old project was made with some reservations, however, as the commission considered the state's master plan for developing the reservoir area for recreation.

The center, operated on a 120-acre tract on the upper reservoir, was started in November 1969 under a Miami University lease with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The state of Indiana leased the entire area from the Army Corps in January of this year, however, apparently terminating the project.

The Natural Resources Department decided to continue the center for one more year, provided that the presidents of both Miami and Earlham, at Richmond, Ind., write letters saying they understand the project can be terminated whenever it is found to interfere with recreational development.

Since the project's inception, students have produced six scientific publications.

Civil Rights status

The civil rights movement is neither as visible nor as audible these days as it was in the 1960s. That is a matter for concern on the part of those who see that very much remains to be accomplished. The question is whether the so-called low profile of the movement at present indicates a serious decline in efforts to achieve equal opportunity for all Americans.

There is no ready answer. Some observers find signs of strain in the coalition of labor, civil rights and religious organizations which pushed through major legislation in the 1960s. To the extent that this weakens the drive for continued progress, it is a disquieting phenomenon.

There is some comfort in the views of Arthur S. Flemming, the new chairman of the Civil Rights Commission. Flemming says he thinks the civil rights movement may seem less active now because the focus is on implementation of the new laws at the local level. This is

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Warning to Kennedy

Martha's Vineyard, Mass. — A little over five years ago we arrived at the Wood's Hole ferry station and found a row of maybe 10 TV wagons waiting on standby to get across. We had been out to dinner the night before, rose early, packed and set out without reading a paper or listening to the radio. As a consequence, in all innocence, I asked one of the workers at the Steamship Authority, "Why all the TV wagons?" Startled, he said, "Haven't you heard? Ted Kennedy drowned some girl last night."

Thus my introduction to Chap-paquiddick and to the eerie sequence that followed as Kennedy tried to evolve a game plan. The eventual version that the Senator and his friends produced struck me as simply preposterous, and, in this column, I said so and urged him to resign. Instead he simply stonewalled and operated on the principle that if he refused to be drawn, the issue would disappear.

The strategy worked quite well. Books and articles on the subject seemed to drop down a bottomless well. Nobody seemed prepared to make a federal case out of the obvious internal inconsistencies in the story (e.g. if Gargan and Markham had gone back with Kennedy to dive for Mary Jo, why didn't anyone notice on their return that their clothes were wet? Had they taken towels?) All hands clammed up and "Chappie" did seem to go away.

THEN THIS July 14th a bomb went off: the New York Times Magazine celebrated the fifth anniversary of the drowning. The job was done by one of the most talented hatchmen in the business, Robert Sherrill (who is also the author of a delightful study of the baroque politics of the old South). But more important for our purposes, Sherrill is the Washington correspondent of The Nation, a political journal which combines the eccentricities of both the new and the old left.

Sherrill and I have, ideologically speaking, been at daggers drawn since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, but no one can fault his investigative ability or his intelligence. What he did in the article, "Chappaquiddick Plus Five," was go for all the weak joints in Kennedy's armor. There is no sense in recapitulating Sherrill's conclusions here, except to note they are devastating.

Leaving the story proper, let us move to two intriguing questions about its purpose and provenance. As you know, I start with the proposition that one should operate on the simplest premises in explaining a phenomenon — but was it an accident, comrades, that this article appeared in the widely circulated and prestigious Times Magazine rather than the anemic and generally ignored Nation? Sherrill, after all, could have run it in his own magazine. Was it commissioned by the editors? Or did Sherrill merely send it off in the mail with a stamped return envelope?

Assuming, as I do, that (like most of the articles I have written for the Times Magazine) Sherrill was invited to prepare the piece, what was its publication intended to do? One does not attack a powerful public figure like Senator Kennedy just for the fun of it, and there was, indeed, a certain macabre quality about the whole business. Why, for example, didn't the Times commemorate "Chap-paquiddick Plus Four"?

There is only one sensible answer. The bomb was detonated as a signal to the liberal intelligentsia that Kennedy would be bad news in 1976, that the time has come to build up a new candidate, say, Fritz Mondale. I haven't picked my 1976 candidate yet, because we don't even know the names of the horses, but with respect to Kennedy's chances of winning the election (not the nomination) I think the Kopechne incident would clobber him. All the Republicans have to do is run the television clip of the Senator announcing he had "panicked," and ask, "Do you want his finger on the button?" Since I don't want to see Vice President Gerald Ford continue as President of the United States for eight years, and the assumption seems to be that if Kennedy wants the nomination, he can have it, the Times article appears to be an Aesopian warning to Kennedy and the Democrats that Chappaquiddick will not go away.

"IS THERE SUCH A THING FOR VICE PRESIDENTS?"

Ohio Perspective Easier, no-fault divorces

By PERRY SMITH

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Beginning late next month bickering married couples who can't agree can be divorced much easier—if they can agree to that.

On Sept. 26 Ohio's new limited no-fault divorce law goes into effect. Neither party will have to prove the other at fault to be freed from matrimony.

The new law is called limited because it will only apply in cases where both parties agree to a divorce, child custody, alimony and property settlement.

In other cases, the old law will apply—with one party claiming the other was at fault and then trying to prove it in court.

Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville, author of the new law, believes the old way was a farce in uncontested cases.

"In many cases, it made liars out of a lot of honest people who just didn't want to live with each other," Norris said. "Often neither was at fault."

Chief grounds for uncontested divorces under the old law was mental cruelty and gross neglect of duty. As Norris explained it, these accusations covered a multitude of sins—or none. Most courts required the seeker of a divorce to prove his or her case with at least two witnesses. Often the witnesses were children of the marriage. "This bill will humanize the procedures," said Norris. "It will avoid the deep emotional antagonisms that accompany divorce and make it easier on family and friends."

The new law would permit courts to order up to 90 days of conciliation procedures in any case involving divorce, annulment or alimony.

"This bill does not call for an easy divorce such as the California system where you don't need any reason to get a divorce," Norris said.

He said that in Ohio, if either party objects to a request for dissolution of marriage, the party-at-fault system would go back into effect—meaning one would have to prove the other guilty of one of the 11 legal grounds for divorce currently in the law.

offers to the widow

DEAR ABBY: I am a 44-year-old widow with three children — two teen-aged boys and a daughter, 12.

My husband died last year after a lingering illness that nearly put us in the poorhouse. I am not destitute, but I have to be a very good manager to make ends meet.

My problem: At his funeral, friends and family hovered around me, expressing their sincere sympathy, and the last thing I heard from ALL of them was: "If you need anything, please call me."

Abby, I need EVERYTHING! I need someone to take an interest in two teen-aged boys who have no father. I need someone to cheer me up when I'm feeling low. I need someone to dress up for. I need someone to get me out of the house and invite me to a movie, a bridge game, a play, a concert, or an evening of conversation so I will know I'm alive. A widow needs everything any other normal woman needs, but she can't call up her friends and ask them for anything.

Please print this, Abby. Maybe someone who has made this offer to some widow somewhere will see it and pick up the phone and ask her what she needs. Thanks for listening.

YOUR FRIEND THE WIDOW

DEAR FRIEND: Consider it done. If this awakens some of your sleeping friends, let me know.

DEAR ABBY: I hate showers! I am 27 years old, and didn't use to feel this way, but enough is enough. Lately I have been invited to showers for girls I hardly know, some of whom I haven't seen since I got out of high school.

Opening presents in front of everyone to publicize how "generous" (or "cheap") the donors are rubs me the wrong way.

I was married (two years ago) and refused when my friends offered to have a shower for me. I had a planned elopement and didn't soak one person for a present.

I have been told that if you're invited to a shower, you must send a gift whether you come or not. How does one courteously reply to a nifty shower invitation for someone she hasn't seen in nine years?

Please answer in your column, Abby. I'm sure I'm not the only one with this problem.

SICK OF SHOWERS

DEAR SICK: There is no "law" which compels you to send a gift if you decline a shower invitation. Simply decline, and don't feel obligated to give a present to someone you "hardly know" or haven't seen in nine years.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22, single and fairly attractive. I don't have to elaborate on how difficult it is for a young lady to find a respectable, intelligent, employed, single man these days.

The problem is, I seem to have found one, but he is seeing another girl.

He has dated me a few times, but I feel so guilty about the other girl, Abby, I don't want to be the cause of their breaking up.

Should I continue to see him? Or should I drop the whole thing before it gets started?

LOST

DEAR LOST: If he wants to break off with the other girl, theirs couldn't be much of a love match. Since you didn't deliberately set out to lure him away, there is no reason to feel guilty. If you wait for a man who is not seeing anyone, you could wait a long time.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SICK OF ALL THAT SEX IN YOUR COLUMN": Sorry, but lately, every other letter that lands on my desk has to do with sex. I invite people to write to me about their problems, and these are their problems.

Capture of the Kings

Then said Joshua . . . bring out those five kings . . . put your feet upon (their) necks . . . and (he) smote them, and slew them. —Joshua 10:22-26

While Joshua's armies were about the business of conquering Gibeon, the five kings who had started the war fled and hid themselves in a cave at Makkedah. When Joshua heard this, he sent several of his troops to the cave, ordering them to put great stones before its mouth, then return to battle. But once the conquest of the Gibeonites was complete, he ordered the cave to be reopened and the kings brought forth. This was done and when the traitors were brought before him, Joshua ordered his men to put their feet upon their necks. Then he struck each one, slew them and hanged them on five trees. At sundown, the bodies were taken down and put into the cave where they had hidden, and again great stones were put before its mouth—this time to remain forevermore.

Minister presents unorthodox methods

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Considering American religious life is now mostly broken into polarized blocs, the Rev. Malcolm Boyd keeps on the move seeking to open lines between them.

New pastor named for Mount Olive

LOWELL WILLIAMS

An associate minister of the Pataskala Church of Christ has been named the full-time pastor of the Church of Christ, Mount Olive Rd. Lowell Williams, a native of Elton, W. Va., has accepted the appointment to serve the Fayette County parish. A member of the Church of Christ since 1942, Williams has been a Bible class teacher, song director, and personnel worker for many years. He attended Freed-Hardeman College in Henderson, Tenn., and has owned a service station since 1966. Williams is married to the former, Louise Gill, of Springdale, W. Va., and is the father of five children. His two older daughters are married and have provided him with two grandchildren.

"In the present situation, I find something essential about being on the road," says the roaming priest.

Father Boyd, an innovative Episcopalian whose ministry has varied from parish pastorates and "freedom rides" to university classrooms and night club acts, maintains that communicating orthodox faith "demands unorthodox methods."

In an interview, he said that Christianity in this country at present is suffering "tremendous fragmentation" in which each separate segment is "talking only to itself, when the very opposite is needed."

"What the church needs to do more than anything else is to bring together the disparate groups that have developed among our people," he said. "The different groups need to listen to each other, to share their experiences."

However, as he sees it, Christianity in the nation now has diffused into five distinctive categories, of which the established denominations represent only one type, but from which the other groups have diverged.

In those circumstances, he said he finds it useful to keep in motion.

"It's a ministry growing out of a need," he said. It makes him a kind of clerical courier — a "runner" across ruptured religious terrain. It's a word that's come to characterize his work.

"The Runner" is the title of his latest book, issued by Word Publishers, of Waco, Tex.

Although he remains an associate teaching fellow at Yale, his base in recent years, he now spends nearly all his time moving from place to place, group to group, "listening, trying to understand, discussing issues of faith."

Father Boyd, 51, a Buffalo, N.Y., native, was a Hollywood TV producer before entering the ministry as an Indianapolis, Ind., rector and later chaplain at Colorado State University and Wayne State University, from which he branched into a diversified ministry in civil rights and other areas.

Because of their diplomatic immunity, foreign diplomats in Britain have dodged paying car parking fines in excess of 250,000 pounds — around $1.3 million — according to Home office figures.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES RICHARD GASKINS

Marriage vows are exchanged in Sabina

Miss Gwen Kay Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Jackson of Wilmington, and Mr. Charles Richard Gaskins, son of Mrs. J. Richard Gaskins of Sabina, were united in marriage Friday evening at the Sabina Friends Church. The Rev. Thomas Applegate performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 o'clock.

Organist was Mrs. Rebecca Scranton, aunt of the groom, also of Sabina, who played several selections including "The Wedding Prayer," "Ave Maria," "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," "Because" and the traditional wedding marches.

Miss Brenda Gaskins sang the "Lord's Prayer," just preceding the ceremony.

Two arrangements of white daisies and white gladiolas were placed in front of two seven-branched candelabra on the altar which were on either side of an open bible. White satin bows were tied to the family pews.

The bride wore a long white satin gown with full skirt flowing into a long train. Pearl drop buttons trimmed the round collar and went down the front of the bodice. The natural waistline and the long puffed sheer sleeves were adorned with lace. The long illusion veil with lace appliques extended over the train. The bridal bouquet was made of white carnations and white daisies and baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Bruce (Sandy) Cornett of Wilmington and bridesmaids Miss Jenny Watson of Wilmington, and Miss Brenda Gaskins of Sabina, sister of the groom. They wore long cotton dresses flowered in pink, yellow, brown and peach, with a-line skirts, empire waists, square necks and short puffed sleeves. They also wore large, soft pastel colored hats. The matron of honor carried yellow daisies and baby's breath and the bridesmaids pink daisies with baby's breath.

Mr. Bruce Beam served as best man and Mr. Trevor Shoemaker and Mr. Richard Reese all of Sabina, as ushers. All wore pastel yellow tuxedo jackets and black trousers. The jackets were highlighted by a yellow tipped carnation.

Mrs. Jackson wore a long dress in aqua knit with long sleeves and her corsage was yellow rosebuds. The groom's mother wore a blue street length double knit with a pink rosebud corsage.

At the reception in the church social room, the linen cloth and the crystal punch bowl on the cake table were heirlooms. They were used by Mr. Gaskins' great-grandfather, James F. Gaskins, and are more than 100 years old. This was the third wedding in the Gaskins family in which they have adorned the reception table.

The four tiered cake was decorated with lace design and yellow and pink rosebuds, and bells decorated the bottom layer, and swans accenting the top was topped with bride and groom on a revolving music box.

Assisting were Mrs. Stanley Lutter, Mrs. Donald Hock and Miss Sylvia Gaskins, all sisters of the groom and Miss Teri Trivett of Wilmington, cousin of the groom.

The guest book was attended by Mrs. Rosalyn Brewington, sister of the bride.

The couple will reside in Sabina Mobile Home Park.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Wilmington High School and is employed at the Wilmington License Bureau.

Mr. Gaskins is a 1972 graduate of East Clinton High School and is employed at Gaskins Printing, Sabina.

Mrs. Gaskins gave the rehearsal dinner Thursday night at her residence for the wedding party. The two daughters and their husbands Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hock and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Lutter assisted her. The Rev. and Mrs. Applegate, unable to be present for the dinner, joined them later.

Vows repeated during garden ceremony

The garden of the bride's parents' lakefront home was the setting for the recent marriage of Miss Ann Lattimore and Ted W. Payton.

The bride's uncle, Rev. M. Murphy, Albuquerque, N.M., performed the double ring ceremony under a floral arch, which united in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lattimore, Lakeside-Marblehead, Ohio, and the son of Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Payton, 416 Jupiter St. Wedding selections were "The Wedding Song", by Paul Stookey, and "Trumpets Volontaire".

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a sheer, double overlay gown of white silk organza over crepe. The bodice was appliqued with clusters of pale pink, yellow, and white Venice lace flowers and repeated as a wide border at the hem. Delicate Venice lace trimmed the neckline, short sleeves, and edged the bottom of the dress. She wore a ripplebrimmed hat of silk organza, trimmed with pastel lace flowers and attached veil. Her clutch bouquet of white daisies, white carnations, and pink roses was accented by yellow statice and baby's breath.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Mari Rogers, Washington D.C., a long time friend of the bride, wore a long, mint green gown with sheer overlay, empire waist, and delicate self ruffle over her shoulders. She wore a wide-brimmed hat to compliment her gown. Her clutch bouquet featured white daisies and pale yellow carnations.

Bill Payton, Stouesville, Ohio, served as his brother's best man.

Mrs. Lattimore chose for her daughter's wedding a long, sheer, shaded lilac formal gown and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses. The groom's mother wore a long pink gown and a corsage of yellow Irish roses.

The garden reception immediately followed the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to Lake Charlevoix, Michigan, the couple is residing at 5562 Heatherdown's, No. 13, Toledo.

The new Mrs. Payton is a graduate of Bowling Green State University. Her husband attended Ohio Northern and Bowling Green State Universities, and is presently employed as a real estate agent with General Development Corp., in Toledo.

Ford's niece remembers defending uncle's policies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Martha Ford Hastings recalls that as a little girl she regarded her uncle Gerald Ford as being "someone really special." But she never imagined he would become President.

And the fact that her uncle is President "just doesn't seem real to me yet," Ford's 24-year-old niece said Thursday in a telephone interview from Toledo.

Mrs. Hastings, who recently moved from Grand Rapids, Mich., to Toledo with her husband, Terry, reminisced about her childhood in the Michigan town where she and her parents shared a duplex with the President and his family.

"I was between the ages of 2 and 5, and Jerry was a congressman always traveling to Washington," she said.

"I don't have any strong memories about him, but I do recall thinking that he had to be really something."

"I looked up to him because he had a lot of people in Michigan supporting him and that really impressed me."

As she grew older, the Tamaran Country Club waitress said she often found herself defending her uncle's political stands.

"I had some real battles with my

Elks convention begins in Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The 45th Ohio Elks convention opened here today with 900 representatives of 99 lodges around the state attending. The meeting will continue through Sunday.

friends," she recalled. "but I guess that's because I had some radical friends. Many of them didn't know I was his niece and they would say things against his policies in front of me."

Mrs. Hastings said that when anyone made a derogatory remark about her uncle she would "defend him with my life. I felt I should defend him. Maybe it was just a family tie, but I felt it was my duty."

The President's niece said she never argued politics with her uncle. "I never thought I was smart enough," she said. She added that the President didn't often discuss politics at family get-togethers.

"The last time I saw him was before the vice presidential swearing-in, when all the relatives met in Washington for a luncheon with Jerry and Betty," she said.

"But even then the discussion was not about politics. He was talking to Betty about which suit he should wear for the swearing-in."

"The family never expected Gerald Ford to be President until he was vice president," Mrs. Hastings said.

"He used to talk to his relatives about wanting to be speaker of the House, but he never mentioned wanting to be President." In fact, before he became vice president he promised his wife that he would retire from politics in 1976, she added.

Mrs. Hastings said the family is not sure if President Ford plans to continue his political career after his term as President expires, but "anything is possible."

Business class set for women

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Dr. Trudy Knox believes too few companies have women presidents. So she's offering a "Women in Business" college course to prepare future female executives.

The class, which Dr. Knox described as the "first of its kind," will be offered at Capital University here, but the psychologist said she hopes it will become a permanent part of many college curriculums.

Dr. Knox said the course is designed to "make women aware of their own potentials." It will begin by describing traditional roles women have played in business and examine ways they can be changed, she said.

Each student will hear a variety of speakers.

In later sessions, Miss Knox said she will use "transactional analysis." She explained this method enables each student to examine both her own life "script" and that of the organization which employs her.

"An underpaid secretary, for instance, may be running an office but is afraid to speak up for herself or isn't even aware she can change things," Dr. Knox said.

"This course will let her see that any changes in her job will depend upon the student, herself."

Miss Knox believes women need a lot of facts to get ahead. "We want to get a broad overview and then apply conclusions specifically to each student," she said.

Speakers will include a female New York psychiatrist who ferried fighter planes during World War II, a panel from the local chapter of the National Organization for Women, and a man who considers himself a "liberated husband."

NEW YORK (AP) — NFL football, its veteran warriors momentarily carrying play books instead of picket signs, kicks off its long network TV season Saturday with Cincinnati-Atlanta on NBC.

And John Brodie, quarterback of the San Francisco 49ers the past 17 seasons, will be starting the game at a new position — analyst of pigskin proceedings for NBC Sports.

He's never worked as a network sports commentator, but he's not too nervous about his impending debut Saturday.

"All I can do is say what I see and that's what I'm hired to do," said Brodie, 39. "And if I don't know anything about football by now, I've wasted an awful lot of time."

"It's going to be a helluva lot easier to correct a mistake from row 70 than it would be down on the field."

The ex-quarterback was asked if the 42-day strike by the NFL Players Association, temporarily ended Sunday for a two-week "cooling-off" period, might make play in Saturday's game a shade ragged.

"Not necessarily," he said. "I don't think it takes a team as long to get in shape as some areas of knowledge think. I remember in 1970 we had the same situation and it was our best year."

Brodie, who spoke in a phone interview from his home near San Francisco, is the second ex-quarterback to join the NBC roster this year. Don Meredith, once of the Dallas Cowboys, signed up early this year after four seasons on ABC's Monday night football show.

Dandy Don starts doing his football thing for NBC on Sept. 5, when he'll cover a Dallas-Pittsburgh Steelers exhibition game.

NBC says he and Brodie won't be working together during the regular NFL season, but may join forces for the Superbowl in January.

Nixon move helps Perk

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Fund raising for Mayor Ralph J. Perk's campaign for the U.S. Senate has been twice as successful in the week since Richard Nixon resigned as president, Perk's campaign manager says.

Robert T. Bennett says the campaign has raised $9,000 in the last seven days. That's reported as more than twice as much as had been raised in any previous week.

"You've got to say it's obviously a plus he's no longer there," Bennett said of Nixon's resignation.

The largest contributor to Perk's effort to beat former astronaut John Glenn is recorded as W.R. Timken Jr., chairman of the Ohio Republican Finance Committee and vice chairman of the board of the Timken Co. in Canton.

Ohio ruled not exempt

DENVER (AP) — The 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Thursday reversed a lower court decision that had exempted the state of Ohio from a class action judgment in the bankruptcy case of Four Seasons Nursing Centers of America, Inc.

The appeals judges ordered the case remanded to the U.S. District Court for Western Oklahoma.

The case surrounded $4 million in loans made by Ohio to Four Seasons in 1970. When the business collapsed, the state sought to collect its funds, but during negotiations between the firm and creditors Ohio's claims were consolidated with others.

The state filed a federal suit contending its attorneys hadn't been properly notified of the settlement.

The appeals court said Ohio hadn't been denied due process in being informed of the judgement and could have opted out of the class decision if it had acted at the time.

Paul Lynde fined in Perrysburg court

PERRYSBURG, Ohio (AP)— Comedian Paul Lynde has been fined $100 and $10 court costs in Perrysburg Municipal Court after pleading no contest to a public intoxication charge.

Lynde, appearing in a play at nearby Toledo, was arrested Tuesday night after he allegedly shouted obscenities at a policeman.

Drought causes honey shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another effect of the summer drought on consumers: Less honey and at higher prices next winter for toast and hot biscuits.

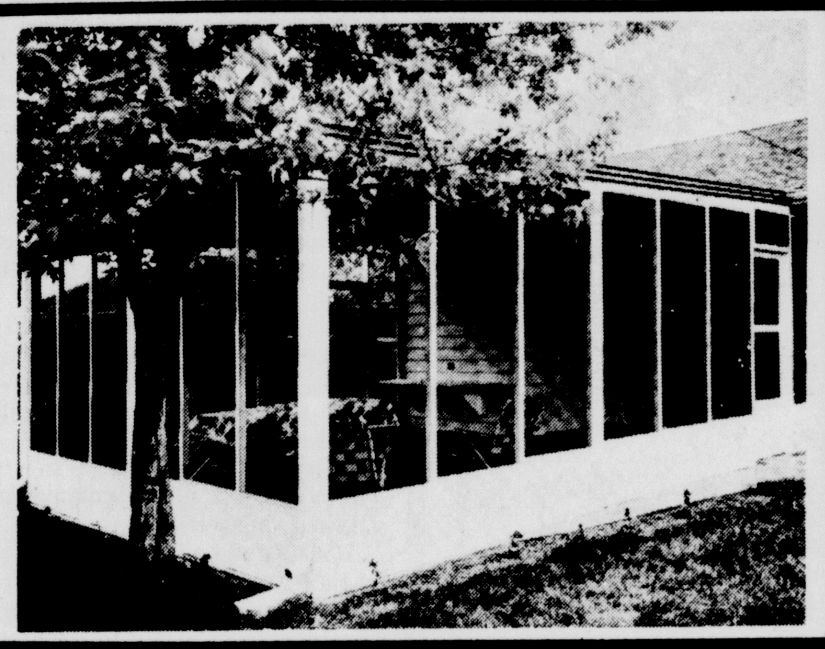

The Agriculture Department says in a monthly Honey Market News bulletin that hot, dry weather in July is expected to reduce production in many states. As a result, the report showed, honey prices at the farm rose above the 45-cent per pound record set in the last half of 1973.

In Iowa, for example, the report said July heat and drought prevented many bees from finding enough nectar for much honey making. "A short crop of clover and alfalfa has prevented some colonies from storing enough honey for winter needs," the report said.

It takes from 30 to 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of maple syrup.

Two burglary suspects bound to grand jury after hearings

Two young men charged with breaking and entering at local establishments have been bound over

Courts

MARRIAGE APPLICATION

Darrell T. Gardner, 22, Bloomingburg, trackman, and Eleanor E. Williams, 24, Rt. 2, Mount Sterling, at home.

DIVORCE ACTIONS FILED

Connie Merritt, 128½ E. Temple St., has filed suit for divorce in Common Pleas Court from Keith W. Merritt, 330 W. Oak St., on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The parties were married Nov. 25, 1972 and have one child. The plaintiff is seeking alimony, custody and support.

Thelma J. Williams, Dogtown Rd., has filed suit for divorce in Common Pleas Court from Timothy J. Williams on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The parties were married May 25, 1973 and have one child. The plaintiff is seeking alimony, custody and support.

DIVORCE ACTIONS DISMISSED

The divorce action filed in Common Pleas Court by Judy A. Brickles, 223 Kennedy Ave., against Daniel Brickles has been dismissed at the request of the plaintiff.

The divorce action filed in Common Pleas Court by Joel L. McDonald, Jeffersonville, against Linda S. McDonald, has been dismissed at the request of the parties.

to the Fayette County grand jury after waiving their rights to preliminary hearings in Municipal Court Thursday afternoon.

Timmy R. Emrick, 19, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is charged with two felony counts of breaking and entering. Orland L. Evans, 23, Bloomingburg, is charged with one count.

Emrick, a former Washington C.H. resident, was arrested along with two juveniles by city police when officers began investigating a reported burglary at the Sagar Dairy store on Leesburg Avenue. He is charged with entering the Hidy Glass Co. building, CCC Highway-W, as well as the Sagar store.

Evans was arrested by Sheriff's deputies for allegedly entering the Allen Grocery, Ohio 41-N.

The combination grocery store and service station was reportedly burglarized last February. A number of cartons of cigarettes were found to have been missing. Information leading to Evans arrest was recently discovered by Sheriff's Sgt. William R. Crooks.

The only other case considered Thursday in Municipal Court was a charge filed against a Columbus man by the Ohio Department of Conservation. Jerry B. Moore forfeited $25 bond on a charge of driving a motor vehicle in parts of the Deer Creek wildlife area where such vehicles are prohibited.

Bush, Rocky, Goldwater are Ohio solons' choices

By EARNESTINE YOUNG

Associated Press Writer

Republican national Chairman George Bush, former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona are the top vice presidential choices of Ohio's GOP congressmen.

"I think Rockefeller is the best known, best experienced in both foreign and domestic affairs," said Rep. Charles W. Whalen Jr. of Dayton.

Whalen also listed Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, as a vice presidential preference, but said Taft would probably be disqualified because of the "geographical question." Ohio borders President Ford's home state of Michigan.

Bush was touted as a prime vice presidential choice by Republican Reps. Donald D. Clancy, Tennyson Guyer, Clarence E. Miller, Clarence J. Brown, and Samuel L. Devine.

Devine, who declined to reveal his other recommendations, said Bush was more than qualified for the post.

"His vast background in legislative and administrative affairs..." was cited by the Columbus representative.

"He's attractive articulate and in the age category where I think he could step in and be of assistance to the President," Devine said.

An aide to Clancy said the congressman thought Bush's qualifications were adequate. He, too, cited the GOP leader's success in business and Congress.

"He also has served as a United States ambassador to the United Nations and is familiar with our foreign policy," the aide said.

"I would be very satisfied with either Rockefeller or Bush said Rep. William E. Minshall.

"They're both imminently qualified and compatible with Ford's thinking."

"Politically they add a lot to the ticket and if something should happen to Jerry they would make good presidents," he added.

U.S. Rep. Clarence E. Miller listed House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz. as his secondary choice.

Brown said he thought that President Ford "should consider someone outside the federal government."

Perry snaps losing streak

by The Associated Press

Gaylord Perry's on a winning streak one in a row.

Earlier in the baseball season, that would have been a joke. But it isn't now to the Cleveland Indians' pitcher.

Murphy and Stockton have lead

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "There was a very good possibility," Bob Murphy said, "that I would never play again."

"Oh, maybe I could have played—but they thought it might be shooting 75. I'd have to find something else to do."

But those fears are behind him now. The chunky, red-haired Murphy, who had his left hand in a cast for three months starting in March, put together a six-under-par 65 Thursday and tied scrambler Dave Stockton for the first-round lead, in the $200,000 Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open Golf Tournament.

Murphy, who had played only two other times since suffering a torn ligament in his hand at the Heritage Classic, had a magnificent effort.

He didn't make a bogey. He hit every green in regulation. And he had it so close to the hole his longest birdie putt was six feet—and he missed two others of about the same length.

"I had a chance to have a really, really low round," said Murphy, a veteran of seven years on the tour and a former winner of this tournament.

He and Stockton shared a one-stroke lead over rookie Eddie Pearce and Australian veteran Bruce Devlin, tied at 66, five under par on the friendly little, 6,598-yard Wethersfield Country Club course.

The group at 67 included Jerry McGee, George Johnson, Don Bies and Hubert Green, a three-time winner this season and one of the game's brightest young stars.

"I played pretty well. I just had a bad finish," said Lee Trevino, the recently crowned PGA National champion who bogeyed two of his last three holes for a 68.

He's tied at that spot, three shots back, with more than a dozen others. South African Gary Player, the Masters and British Open titleholder, had a 69 and defending champion Billy Casper matched par 71 in the mild, sunny, slightly-breezy weather.

U.S. Open king Hale Irwin, Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and leading money winner Johnny Miller are not competing.

modest 16-7.

"That's the longest slump I've ever had and it has been the hardest one," Perry noted.

He was taken out of Thursday night's game after walking the leadoff batter in the eighth inning. He had given up just five hits.

"I didn't want to come out," Perry said. "But you can't say it was a bad move from the way it worked out."

Frank Duffy's two-run single provided Perry with his winning runs. With the score tied 1-1 and two out in the Cleveland sixth, John Ellis doubled. Minnesota starter Bert Blyleven, 11-14, then walked Oscar Gamble and Tom McCraw to load the bases and set the stage for Duffy's single to left. The Indians scored an insurance run in the eighth on McCraw's sacrifice fly.

All Detroit Lions in action tonight

By The Associated Press

Some of the Detroit Lions may be pussycats by the end of tonight's National Football League exhibition against the Oakland Raiders.

Lions Coach Rick Forzano announced Thursday that his team "would use everyone we can against Oakland" despite the fact that many of the striking veterans have been in camp only a few days.

Oakland is expected to start a veteran at each position as football fans will get their first look this weekend at many familiar faces who have stayed away from camp because of the NFL Players Association strike. The strike has been postponed for two weeks while both sides go back to the bargaining table.

Saturday, the New York Giants play the New York Jets at New Haven, Conn., Pittsburgh is at Philadelphia, Baltimore plays Cleveland at Tampa, Fla., Cincinnati faces Atlanta at Ga. Tech, Chicago is at Green Bay, Houston is at Dallas, and Kansas City is at Los Angeles.

Denver is at San Francisco on Sunday while St. Louis plays San Diego at Seattle, Buffalo is at Washington and New Orleans is at New England. Minnesota is at Miami in Monday night action.

Both sides resumed talks Thursday in Washington for about 1½ hours

Paul Warfield readies for final season in NFL

MIAMI (AP) — Wide receiver Paul Warfield has recalled a personal forecast that he would not be with the Miami Dolphins in 1975.

"I said before camp last year that I'd probably play that year and possibly one more before retiring," Warfield said Thursday.

His retirement plans were changed by a $3.5-million contract given him, fullback Larry Csonka and running back Jim Kick to play with the Memphis Southmen in the World Football League.

"Physically, I feel as good as I've felt for the last three to four years," said Warfield of his playing outlook. "Emotionally, to play 20 games a year is quite hard."

Warfield, who earns an estimated $70,000 with the National Football League champion Dolphins, said money wasn't always his main goal in football. He said he turned down a higher offer from the old American Football League to sign with the club he idolized as a youth, the Cleveland Browns, in 1964.

The former Ohio State star, now a Cleveland resident, indicated he might think twice if he had the AFL-Browns option open to him again.

"I was raised in Western society," he explained. "You learn it is not wrong for someone to try to acquire a better standard of living."

Warfield is to get an estimated $1 million from the three-year WFL contract. The lion's share goes to Csonka and the smallest portion to Kick, who lost his Miami starting job to Mercury Morris the past two seasons.

Warfield has been perhaps the most popular of all the Dolphins since he was obtained from Cleveland in 1970. Dolphin T-shirts bearing his number, 42, have been almost impossible to find in South Florida stores during past seasons.

But now, Warfield realizes he may be subject to boos from disgruntled fans.

"I think most of the people can place themselves in my situation and realize I did what was best for those dear to me," said the father of one daughter. "I think most of them will evaluate me fairly."

"I'm just going to do my job as well as I can and hope that will be well enough to satisfy me and hopefully, satisfy the people here."

Gisbert tops Connors in Canadian net tournament

TORONTO (AP) — Lately it has seemed that Chris Evert and Jimmy Connors were inseparable, both in and out of the winners circle.

Both tennis stars won at Wimbledon and both won the U.S. Clay Courts at Indianapolis.

But an unheralded Spaniard, Juan Gisbert, finally came between the two stars in the $130,000 Canadian Open tennis championships.

Gisbert toppled the top-ranked Connors 7-6, 6-2 Thursday in third-round competition, while Miss Evert continued on with an imposing 6-0, 6-0 victory over Laurie Tenney.

Connors said that at times during the match he "seemed to lose interest a little bit in the match."

It was Connors' ground strokes that got him into difficulty. In the tiebreaker that decided the opening set,

Connors hit five backhands into the net. "It's not so important now," Connors said. "I've won the Wimbledon title and I'm relaxed and loose."

Gisbert was ecstatic after beating the top-ranked pro from Belleville, Ill.

"It was one of the biggest wins of my career," said Gisbert. "My game was steady. I did not expect to beat him."

Miss Evert's victory came after she had lost only two games in winning her Wednesday match.

Jeanne Evert joined her more-heralded older sister in advancing by beating Paulina Peisachov of Israel 6-4, 6-2 while American Julie Heldman also won, defeating Racquel Giscafre of Argentina 6-2, 6-0.

Others playing today after winning Thursday were Manuel Orantes, Hans Pohman, Tom Okker, Harold Solomon, Bjorn Borg and Guillermo Vilas.

104 gridders in Fayette Co. camps

BY MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Writer

High school football practice opened at both Washington C.H. and Miami Trace high schools this week. A total of 104 gridders are practicing in the two camps compared to last year's number of 98 prospects.

Predictable enthusiasm was present as both teams opened pre-season practice with two workouts and with first day morale at its usual high. Both teams were able to report productive sessions.

The two-a-day drills began right on schedule and will continue throughout the next two weeks until school starts.

At Miami Trace, head coach Fred Zechman welcomed 58 hopefuls, while veteran Washington mentor Maurice Pfeifer greeted 46 prospective candidates. Last year, 50 prospects dotted the Miami Trace training camp while 48 would-be Blue Lions were on hand in the Court House camp.

The emphasis is on physical conditioning in both Fayette County football camps even though candidates from both schools have been involved in voluntary conditioning programs since mid-July. The Ohio High School Athletic Association requires four days of conditioning once practice officially opens.

The Blue Lion coaching staff is looking for something near to matching last year's Number 1, Class AA team but are being forced to concentrate on rebuilding. A total of 20 seniors were lost via graduation and a large amount of them held down important front-line positions.

Miami Trace lost 12 seniors via graduation and, as with Washington C.H., many were first-stringers.

Zechman singled out the play of this year's seniors, saying they worked hard and showed a great degree of leadership. Pfeifer was well pleased with his squad's quickness and reported everyone was in good condition. This year the Lions are without a single 200 pound man on the squad while Miami Trace boasts three 200 pounders.

Conditioning highlighted Washington C.H.'s first official practice session as 24 of his 46 candidates completed the Lions' traditional six-minute-mile run. Jeff Brown, for the second consecutive year, turned in the fastest time, completing the mile in five minutes, twenty-three seconds, which is the fastest time ever, according to Pfeifer.

Both teams will work in earnest until schools start and then look forward to the season openers.

Gagliano is effective in pinch for the Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Powerfully built Phil Gagliano is the closest thing the Cincinnati Reds have to a designated hitter. He hits for pitchers but not often.

In fact, he has only two hits this season but Manager Sparky Anderson says he's effective — he gets on base.

Gagliano has made very few appearances on defense. He's a first baseman by trade.

He was the Reds leading pinch hitter last year with 15 hits in 41 at bats for .366. Ironically, it was his bunt with two outs Sept. 4, 1973, that scored the winning run and clinched the western division of the National League for the Reds.

But his two for 36 this year can only be judged by the number of walks he has received — 15.

That number of walks is a National League record. Elmer Valo had 18 in 1960 for the Washington Senators for the major league record.

"You expect to get fastballs and you expect them to pitch to you," said Gagliano of his pinch hit situations with no outs and no one on base.

"They don't want to walk you with Pete Rose, Joe Morgan, Johnny Bench and Tony Perez coming up."

But he has been getting on base almost 50 per cent of the time.

"I'm not too happy with my average," he said sarcastically. It was .095 going into the Pittsburgh series here.

He said he could think of only two times when he came up in a game situation when a hit would mean a winning run.

"Once I popped out and the other time Mike Marshall of Los Angeles, walked me. I go up and get four balls in a hurry. Before I know it the umpire is telling me to go to first base."

The red-hot New York Mets, fresh from a three-game sweep of the Dodgers, move into Riverfront Stadium tonight for the first of three with Cincinnati.

Rookie Tom Carroll, 4-0, goes to the hill for the Reds and Jerry Koosman, 11-8, is scheduled to pitch for New York.

The Reds, who are again only 4½ games behind the Dodgers in the western division, are hoping to gain more ground.

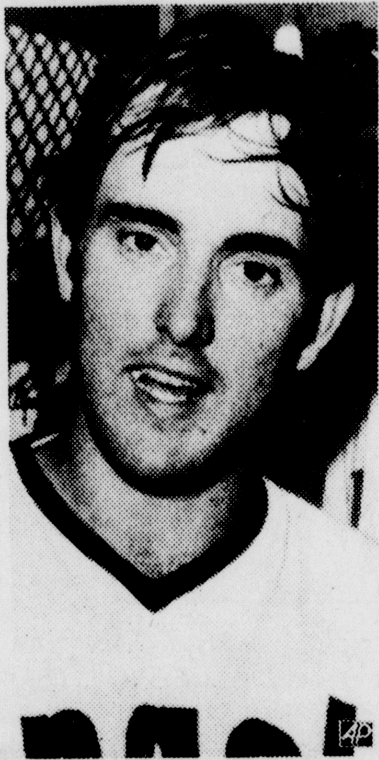

Millstone, Jilley win Scioto races

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Millstone and Jilley won the two divisions of the $19,000 Scarlet and Gray Cup for two-year-old pacers at Scioto Downs Thursday night.

Millstone led all the way in covering the mile in 2:03 2-5 and returned $4, $3 and $3.60.

Jilley grabbed the lead at the half-way mark to capture the second division in 2:02 1-5 and paid $3.40, $2.80 and $2.20.

The 4-2 daily double combination of Condor Kid and Has Time was worth $22.60.

SETS RECORD — Nolan Ryan, above, pitcher for the California Angels, relaxes in locker room in the Angels Anaheim, Calif., stadium after striking out 19 men and beating the Boston Red Sox 4-2. Ryan's strike outs set a new American League record and ties the National League record. (AP Wirephoto)

Alook at the issues in Cyprus

By The Associated Press
Here are the immediate issues behind the new conflict on Cyprus:
Greek Cypriots outnumber Turkish
Cypriots on the Mediterranean island by about four to one, in round figures.
Turkey invaded last month, saying the Turkish minority needed its protection and expressing fear that the Greek Cypriots who took over the government from the ousted Archbishop Makarios would unite the island with Greece, then under military control.
After a cease-fire was declared on July 20, the Turks demanded an autonomous region along the north coast to be federated with a separate region for Greek Cypriots.
Greece rejected the proposal at a peace conference in Geneva, saying it would lead to eventual partition of the island.

Then, the Turks offered a settlement based on the establishment of six autonomous Turkish regions, covering about one-third of the island. More than half the territory in this proposal was on the northern coast around Kyrenia, the original Turkish invasion beachhead. The Turks said this was a "big compromise."

The Greek Cypriots objected that one-third of the island was too much for the Turkish minority and would involve a mass displacement of Greeks.

The Greek Cypriots then offered self-rule for the Turks in their present villages, but no separate state.

The Geneva talks reached a stalemate at this point. A 48-hour
"cooling off" period was proposed by the British. But the Turks demanded an immediate yes-or-no answer to the "big compromise." None came.

Ford a commuter President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford stops traffic twice daily over an eight-mile route, but fellow commuters just smile and wave him on.

A commuter president is something Washington hasn't had in a while, and won't have very long. The Fords are planning to move into the White House on Monday and the President will be able to walk home from the Oval Office.

Reporters and cameramen will be able to get a little more sleep and police and Secret Service escorts can relax.

Ford's commuting has created a new style for a new president.

It is reminiscent, in a way, of Harry S. Truman's early morning walks. The daily appearances give people a chance to see him, and reporters a chance for informal chats.

Ford is an early morning commuter—off before 7:30 a.m. He is back by 8 p.m. People can count on it.

It has made him one of the folks in a way—even if his chauffeur-driven, police-escorted travel is luxurious.

He comes home for dinner with a newspaper tucked under his arm, carrying his commuter-size brown attache case, always pausing to wave and chat.

"Hi, President Ford," neighbor youngsters call out to him.

He said he always does some reading on the 15-minute drive.

One evening, if he looked up along the homebound route, he could have seen youngsters on a grassy hillside holding aloft a hand-lettered sign, saying "Hello, Mr. President."

Another night, a girl on horseback joined the evening welcome home regulars on his street, Crown View Drive in suburban Alexandria, Va.

The cares of his new office are beginning to show in Ford's week as a commuter. He is coming in a little earlier and going home a little later each day.

UNDONE — It was the connecting pin which holds the semi cab to the trailer which came undone at 4:45 p.m. Thursday, in the vicinity of I-71 and U.S. 35 and caused the two units to separate. The cab portion is in the foreground right of the photo and a wrecker from Warner's is in the background getting ready to lift the fallen trailer off the road. Damage was moderate to both road and trailer

Freak truck mishap checked

Two charged after accidents

A Washington C.H. man was charged by city police with reckless operation after he collided with a parked car early Friday and the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported charging a Bloomingburg woman with reckless operation, along with a freak mishap in which a semi cab drove away from its trailer and an accident in which a Hamilton man struck a fireplug.

A car driven by John R. Feniman, 54, of 228 East St., swerved to the right in front of 419 S. Fayette Street and collided with a parked car owned by Helen R. Knisley of that address. Both cars were severely damaged according to police estimates and Feniman was cited for reckless operation.

Police also reported Feniman showing visible signs of injury at the accident scene, but he was not treated.

A car driven by Alice L. McCarty, 28, Bloomingburg, drove off the right side of CCC Highway-E, one and two-tenths miles north of Washington-Waterloo Road and then traveled left of center and off the left side of the road, where the car collided with a fence belonging to the Adams Estate, Rt. 5, spun around 180 degrees and finally came to a stop.

The mishap occurred at 6:45 a.m. Friday and Fayette County Sheriff's Deputies cited Ms. McCarty for reckless operation.

A semi tractor-trailer vehicle driven by Wayne R. Blake, 44, Akron, was involved in a freak mishap at 4:45 p.m. Thursday, when Blake pulled out of Stop 35, onto U.S. 35, 320 feet west of West Lancaster Road and became separated from the trailer portion of his semi.

Sheriff's deputies reported moderate damage to the trailer and the road.

A car driven by Jay W. Jentry, 52, Hamilton, struck a fireplug at the intersection of Leesburg Avenue and Wagner Way in Union Township at 10:30 a.m. Friday, sheriff's deputies reported. Damage was minor.

Sawdust pile fire doused

A sawdust pile at the rear of the Washington C.H. Eagles Lodge, 320 Sycamore St., burst into flames not once, but twice for Washington C.H. firemen.

The first fire, which kept firemen on the scene nearly an hour and a half, was reported at 9:54 p.m. Thursday. The second fire was reported at 1:26 a.m. Friday and detained firemen until 4 a.m. In both instances, water was used to subdue the flames.

Deputies investigate two larceny reports

Two larcenies were investigated in the county by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, while the city enjoyed a quiet evening - city police officers reporting only a dog bite.

A color television valued at $350, a tape player valued at $175, a socket set valued at $25 and an electric coffee perculator valued at $25, were stolen from a camper owned by Howard E. Sibey, Pleasant Plain, sometime during 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Sunday, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported.

Sibey's camper had been parked at Yeoman's Radio and TV, CCC-Highway-W, during the time of the theft. He had been attending the gun show at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

The soft drink vending machine was burglarized at Moore's Fruit Market, CCC-Highway-W, sometime between 8 p.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. Thursday, sheriff's deputies reported. Ten dollars in change was stolen and a pry bar used to force open the machine.

Ruth E. Green, 9, of 1112 E. Paint St. was bitten by a dog on the right hip in front of 1143 Rawlings Street, at 4:25 p.m. Thursday, police reported. The girl was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Family set to drift on houseboat

CORONA, S.D. (AP) — Stung by the falling cattle market and anxious to get away for a while, the Marcus Joachim family is planning to drift through life for a few years on a giant homemade houseboat.

Joachim, 26, who raised 100 head of cattle on his father's farm near here before the bottom dropped out of the market, drew up the plans himself and began building the vessel in May.

He plans to launch it on the Missouri River, and is constructing the 70-foot long and 20-foot high vessel on a trailer so all he has to do is pull it 200 miles south to the launch ramp at Sioux City, Iowa.

"He's been playing with the idea for four years and we just decided to do it," said his wife Barbara, 22. "The cattle weren't making much of a living... and he figured that before the kids are in school, we'd all get away while we can. I think it will be fun."

The couple and their two daughters, Selissa, 4, and Nicole, 8 months, live with his father, Victor.

Joachim, who worked on boats in Alaska, hopes to have his finished in October. The family will leave then, unless they're short of money, in which case they'll save and sail next spring.

The boat's main structure is constructed of 2-by-6-inch planks, and the bottom and sides will be covered by fiberglass. The living quarters, 14 feet by 40 feet, will be built on the main deck with a wheelhouse mounted on top. There will be two bedrooms and three watertight compartments for storage. Tanks will be built in the hold to carry 1,500 gallons each of fuel and water.

Solons OK time change

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr. credits a U.S. Department of Transportation study with swinging enough votes in Congress Thursday to approve an amendment of his which would end Daylight Savings Time four months during the winter.

The Taft amendment won approval in the Senate version of the Energy Reorganization Act. It would return the country to Standard Time from the last Sunday of October through the last Sunday of February, beginning this fall.

"The use of winter Daylight Savings Time has caused severe hardship for the people of Ohio, particularly in the western part of the state, in return for a relatively insignificant savings in energy," Taft said.

The U.S. Department of Transportation study showed some savings, but it was primarily in coal used by electric generating plants, Taft said.

"School children have had to bear the brunt of this and it has been disruptive for them and for their families. I am especially happy that the Senate dealt with this problem in time for the opening of school this fall," Taft said.
